THE PEACE TAX RETURN EXPLAINED: A Declaration of Objection to Military Taxes

The preceding form is for those who object to contributing to military spending on grounds of conscience and wish to declare their objection to the Canadian government. Although this is not an official Income Tax and Benefit Return form, it is not an offense to use it, nor are we aware of any criminal charges against any of the 1,000+ Canadians who have expressed conscientious objection to military taxation since Conscience Canada began in 1978. For information on likely consequences, please see the FAQs on our website — www.consciencecanada.ca and look under the Resources tab.

Please be aware that by using this Peace Tax Return and sending a copy to Conscience Canada (CC) you will be regarded as a voting member of CC. You will receive our twice yearly newsletter and occasional e-mails from us to keep you informed of new peace initiatives and other CC news and ideas.

Instructions for Option A

Option A is for those who have no tax payable, have a refund coming, or do not wish to withhold their military taxes but still want to register their objection to paying for war.

- Sign and date your Option A declaration of objection to military taxation.
- Mail it to the Minister of Finance, House of Commons, Ottawa, ON K1A 0A6.
- Notify Conscience Canada by mail or email.

It will strengthen your message if you:

- Send a letter to the Minister of Finance along with your declaration, explaining why you wish to have your taxes supporting peace rather than killing. We offer a sample letter on page 4.
- Send copies of your letter to the Minister of Revenue, to all Party Leaders, your MP, and Conscience Canada. Contact information for MPs and cabinet ministers can be found at <https://www.ourcommons.ca/Members/en/search> or call 1-800-O-Canada (1-800-622-6232) for government contact information.

Instructions for Option B

Option B is for those who wish to withhold all or part of their military taxes and have tax owing.

- After completing your official Income Tax form down to Balance Owing (line 48500), go back to the Net Federal Tax (line 42000) and calculate 6.1 % (this is DND expenditures in 2023-24 as a percentage of total government expenditures) of the amount you entered on this line. Deduct that amount (the 6.1 %) from your cheque or electronic payment to the Receiver General. If you have chosen to withhold a symbolic sum, deduct the symbolic amount you have chosen from the tax you owe.
- Write a letter to the Minister of Finance explaining why you wish to have your taxes supporting peace rather than killing. Modify the sample on the following page so that it speaks for you.
- After signing and dating the declaration in Option B, attach the following to your Income Tax and Benefit Return: the Peace Tax Return, and a copy of your letter to the Minister of Finance. Send to your Tax Centre or Tax Services Office.
- Send a copy of your Peace Tax Return along with your letter to the Minister of Finance. We also encourage you to send copies of your letter to all Party Leaders, your MP, and Conscience Canada. Contact information for MPs and cabinet ministers can be found at <https://www.ourcommons.ca/Members/en/search> or call 1-800-O-Canada (1-800-622-6232) for government contact information.

NOTE: Conscience Canada no longer maintains a Peace Tax Trust Fund where a taxpayer's withheld military taxes could have been deposited for safekeeping. It is up to each individual withholding military tax to decide on how to handle their withheld money. You may wish to show support for full legal recognition of conscientious objection to military taxation by donating some or all of your withheld military taxes to a charitable group working to promote peace and justice.

SAMPLE LETTER TO THE MINISTER OF FINANCE

Minister of Finance
House of Commons
Ottawa, ON K1A 0A6

Dear Minister LeBlanc,

Today in the midst of increasing climate turmoil, global disorder and armed conflict, I feel more than ever how imperative it is that humanity must discard century old habits of believing might can make things right. I believe that we must use non-violent conflict resolution, including strengthening democratic institutions, in order to live well through the tumultuous future ahead.

Arming, participating in and profiting from wars in Ukraine, Gaza, Sudan, and so many others cannot enhance the security of Canadians. And yet as a taxpayer I am required to pay for never ending war preparation, arms acquisition and violent conflict (aka: national defence). I object! I want no part of this! I want all taxes I pay to support ecological and human health, education, housing, science, social justice – all the important fundamentals of daily life that our human community needs. I want my taxes to support robust peace making (including working to rectify the gross injustices that feed violence) and collaborative peace building.

I am a conscientious objector to engaging in war, militarism and violence against others. I join with other conscientious objectors in protesting my taxes being used to pay others to harm, main, and kill in my stead. The Charter of Rights and Freedoms lays out our right to freedom of conscience, yet in Canada we cannot currently exercise our right to conscientious objection to our taxes being used for the purposes of war.

In order to genuinely respect freedom of conscience, Canada needs to establish a Peace Tax Fund or create a Department of Peace towards which conscientious objectors could direct their taxes. Please introduce a legal conduit for conscientious objectors to fulfill their community responsibility to pay taxes, without needing to betray their conscience.

“Peace cannot be kept by force; it can only be achieved by understanding.” Albert Einstein

Sincerely,

In your letter, you may also wish to address the history of conscientious objection in Canada, the destructive effects of war, the financial burden and lost opportunities relating to military spending, the impact of the military on climate change and the environment, non-violent alternatives to military force, and Canadian leadership in keeping peace. Visit our website consciencecanada.ca for more information.

If you have no tax to pay because it is deducted at source, you might want to add weight to your support for full recognition of conscientious objection by donating some or all of your tax refund to a group that works to promote peace and justice.

In being a conscientious objector to military taxation you are joined by many prominent Canadians. On May 12, 2009, Senator Nancy Ruth addressed the Senate of Canada, stating: “I am speaking in support of the re-introduction into parliament of the Conscientious Objection Act, which would give all Canadians the option of dedicating their taxes solely to peaceful purposes.” As she had explained to senators on May 15, 2007, “I am one of those Canadians who, for some years, have withheld from my income tax payment the percentage for the military budget.”

CONSCIENCE CANADA has worked since 1978 to increase Canadians’ awareness of the connection between taxes and war, divert taxes away from war, support creative non-violent conflict prevention and resolution, and promote conscientious objection legislation.
